The Robert Scott Bell Show: Homeopathic Hits - Cina

Cina: The Remedy for Worm Infestations and Irritability in Children

---

Introduction:

Welcome back to the "Homeopathic Hits" segment of The Robert Scott Bell Show. Today, we're focusing on Cina, a remedy often used for worm infestations and associated irritability in children. This brief guide will delve into the various applications of Cina, particularly its effectiveness in treating these conditions.

Origin of Cina:

Cina is derived from the Artemisia cina plant, commonly known as wormseed. This plant has been traditionally used for its vermifuge properties, which are harnessed in homeopathy to treat conditions related to worm infestations.

Key Characteristics:

- Physical: Cina is primarily known for its effectiveness in treating symptoms associated with worm infestations, such as itching of the nose and anus, abdominal pain, and irregular appetite.
- Mental: Children needing Cina may exhibit marked irritability, capriciousness, and a tendency to have temper tantrums.

Primary Uses:

- Worm Infestations: Effective for dealing with the physical and behavioral symptoms associated with worm infestations in children.
- Irritability in Children: Used for children who are exceptionally irritable and fussy, especially when related to gastrointestinal discomfort. Teeth grinding.

Dosages and Potencies:

- Low Potencies (6X - 30C): Suitable for acute symptoms of worm infestations and mild behavioral issues.
- Medium to High Potencies (200C - 1M): Used for more chronic conditions or severe irritability and discomfort.

Consult a qualified homeopath for the correct potency and dosage.

Complementary Remedies:

- Sulphur: Often used in conjunction with Cina for persistent itching or when symptoms of worm infestations continue.
- Chamomilla: Complements Cina in treating irritability and restlessness in children, especially when they are teething.
- Teucrium: Complements Cina in treating anal itching, nervous symptoms and others associated with parasitic infection.

Cautions:

While Cina is generally considered safe:

- Avoid self-prescribing for chronic or severe conditions.
- If symptoms persist or worsen, consult a homeopathic professional.

Conclusion:

Cina is a valuable homeopathic remedy, particularly effective for treating worm infestations and associated irritability in children. Stay tuned to The Robert Scott Bell Show for more enlightening dives into the world of homeopathy through our "Homeopathic Hits" segment.

Disclaimer: This article is for informational purposes only and is not a substitute for professional medical advice, diagnosis, or treatment. Always consult your healthcare provider for any medical condition.

TRINITY school of natural health

Nutritional Frontiers
Breaking Through Nutritional Boundaries